Ad Club Speaker Explains Fire Risk Insurance

Earl I. Birdseye, speaker at last week's Advertising Club dinner, gave some good advice to merchants and householders relative to safety measures for fire prevention.

He pointed out that an adequate water supply, proper fire hydrants, good apparatus, and live and alert fire and police department all were figured by the rating board in setting a fire insurance rate in a community.

Dangers which raise fire rates are the putting of hot ashes into non-metallic baskets and boxes, use of rubber tubing for gas connections, swinging gas brackets, loose electric connections, defective chimneys, collections of refuse about homes and buildings and also in homes and commercial or mercantile buildings. Many of these things can be eliminated at small expense and he pointed out that when these things are done the community has performed a service.

He answered several questions. Among things he pointed out that a house cannot depreciate beyond 50 per cent for fire adjustment purposes and furniture and fixtures adjustments are made on a basis of cash value for replacement at time of fire. This value varies according to market conditions so no ironclad rule can be made on adjustments.

Premiums are based on losses and readjusted about every ten years. He suggested everyone have an inventory of home, offices and furnitures, fixtures and stock in some safe place to help in adjusting any fire loss.

Main Street Christmas Lights Possible Through Cooperation

Merchants and professional men contribute money and electricians and others time and result is a beautifully lighted street at night equal to any in county —Those who contributed to make it possible.

The Main street lights have been installed, laurel has been wound around the light strings and also around the electric light poles, the Civic Club community Christmas tree is in place and lighted in front of the village hall and all in all Main street looks better than it has ever looked at Christmas time in the opinion of merchants doing business there and shoppers buying there. Seven strings across Main street with triangles at each end brilliantly illuminate the street each night.

The whole idea started in the Advertising Club and they sponsored it with John Davis as chairman of the committee, Carl Rouse provided the inspiration for the lights and Harry Mullen as the fund solicitor, and President Milton Crane as advisor.

And the whole thing was made possible through the cooperation of a group of young men of the community who donated time in making and erecting the strings and the merchants and professional men who donated the capital for the lighting fixtures and laurel and the village board for providing funds to keep the lights burning nightly until New Year's.

Those who donated time in putting together and hanging the lights were John Sanford, George Freeman, John Davis, Walter McDermott, Wyckoff Sherwood, James Barkalow, Michael Triches, all electricians doing business here, L. E. Handy, through whose efforts the material was purchased at cost, Francis Hill, Harold Heidrick and Louis Manley, who donated the Addison Telephone Company truck and equipment and worked himself, John Bullock and Ralph Dykins.

Parents Asked to Return Religious Instruction Cards

Announcement of the voluntary religious instruction programs to begin for school students January 3, was made in all the churches of the community Sunday. Only children from the third to sixth grades inclusive are included in the present program. Pastors asked the parents of children in these grades to sign the cards and statements permitting the children to take these courses. The cards must be returned this week to Principal Irving R. Gladstone in the high school so that the system can begin operating for all children when the new year begins.

The children permitted to take this religious instruction, permission being given by parents, will be excused from school each Wednesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock, instruction in the churches of their choice will begin at 3 and continue until 3:45 o'clock and the commuting children will then return to school to catch their busses while the village children will be excused to go to their homes.

The plan is voluntary on the part of parents and students, but once the approval is given, the children will be required to attend the instruction the same as a regular school class for school attendance and discipine will be maintained.

60 Christmas Baskets For Addison Needy

Sixty Christmas baskets will be needed to supply the needy families of Addison and vicinity and 60 baskets are being supplied by members of various organizations and individuals in the community.

For the first time in several years, a committee planned a program of one basket to a family and a basket to every needy family. Lists of those needing baskets were supplied by church and welfare organizations, fraternal orders and individuals.

Mrs. Amos Stiker and Mrs. Horace E. Auringer fathered the idea and two meetings were held in the home of Mrs. Stiker at which lists were submitted. Welfare Officer Willis Colburn presided as chairman for these meetings.

There are many people in the village who are not on relief and yet would be unable to provide a good Christmas for themselves or children and it is the aim of the committee to see that everyone in the village has an opportunity to enjoy an equal Christmas and be provided with a Christmas meal and where children are to provide toys and clothing. The members of the committee are to be commended for their work.

The organizations contributing baskets and the number from each are: American Legion and Legion Auxiliary, 10; Addison Advertiser staff, one; Catholic Daughters of America, three; Daughters of American Revolution, one; Episcopal Auxiliary, three; Episcopal Men's Club, one; Epworth League of the Methodist Church, one; Girls' Friendly Society of the Episcopal Church, one; Girl Scouts, toys; Gillet Club of the Presbyterian Church, two; Home Bureau, three; High School Faculty, toys; Methodist Men, one; Older Girl Scouts, one; Odd Fellows, one; Philathea Class of the Methodist Church, three; Phoenix Hose Co., toys; Presbyterian Church, six; Rebekahs, one; Red Cross and Salvation Army combined, 15 baskets; Taber Class of the Baptist Church, one; Welles Hose Co., two baskets and eight individuals have donated money or materials to make four baskets more for distribution. Addison Advertising Club To Promote Exterior Christmas Decorations in Addison

The Addison Advertising Club is offering prizes for outdoor Christmas decorations.

Three prizes for the most attractive homes, first for the most attractive window.

No registration necessary.

For the benefit of those planning on decorating the following points will be considered by the judges:

1st. Appropriateness—Harmony of decorations with architecture and surroundings.

2nd. Simplicity—Not overdone, beauty as a whole.

3rd. Originality.

The Christmas tree in front of the village hall last year was most attractive. We know the committee responsible for it will see that another Christmas tree will be there again this year.

Many comments were made last year of the beauty of the decorated homes.

Let's make it this year more beautiful than in the past by everyone decorating for the holidays.

Watch for next week's announcements.

SAVE THE DAM

Dozens of local people who have read the proposal of the army engineers for finishing the dikes in Addison have shaken their heads in genuine regret at one part of the plans. For the plans propose the destruction of a part of the village which is older, more a part and parcel of the community than any individual in Addison. That proposal is to destroy the dam which crosses the Canisteo River beside the old mill property.

To the thoughtless this does not mean so much. The mill is in disuse and no one can safely predict the water power will ever be put to work again. But the dam represents more than an industrial asset—it represents the heart of our village for it forms the mill pond which has stretched to the west for a time longer than any person in Addison can remember. It is symbolic of the grace and beauty which has belonged to this place since the early settlers started their mills and gave the community a name.

What will happen if the dam is torn out? We will be faced with an ugly, dirty slough-hole for the rest of our lives. The beautiful river which has been a winter and summer playground for more than a century, will be turned into an ugly trickle through a stinking mass of mud. Addison will change from a picturesque village set upon a river, into a mud flat like the so-called stream which oozes nastily from Hornell to Canisteo along route 17.

Our fine fishing grounds will be destroyed, our picturesque village will be irreparably defaced. Instead of wishing to look at our river, visitors will want to hurry across holding their noses.

Public spirited citizens with an ounce of pride, sportsmen who think of the future and all parents who desire their children to grow up in a decent looking community should boldly protest this action.

Many here have lived through great changes in Addison, a few for the better, many for the worse. But all those who really value the appearance of their community surroundings will join in saying this physical outrage should not be committed. The looks of our village should not be thus blighted. If you are determined to thus destroy the beauty of our surroundings then buy up our homes that we may move away before the smell of a damless river drives us from them!

STILL A LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

Retail merchandising has again proven that this country is a land of opportunity.

We have super markets, chain stores and independent merchants who live and prosper side by side. And just about the time the pessimists concluded that there was no further room for expansion, no more opportunities, along came an Englishman, driven here by war abroad. He came with little more than an idea, and went to an Eastern suburban community of 27,000 people. Like thousands of similar communities throughout the country, its main street presented a motley array of shops and stores, living on the "left-overs" of a nearby metropolis. The Englishman proceeded to promote his idea. It consisted of a modern, well constructed building a block square, carefully designed to attractively house a wide selection of retail stores, both chain and independent. Each tenant is quartered in distinctive surroundings with a pleasant facade to attract business.

This Englishman's idea has succeeded and borne fruit. He took a chance and deservedly prospered, just as millions of individuals have taken chances and prospered in America before him, and the community prospered with him.

This is an example of the kind of progress that results when the private citizen is free to labor, under the open competitive system, and reap the rewards of that labor. America is still a land of opportunity.

CENTRALIZED POWER CONTRARY TO DEMOCRACY

In certain official circles the opinion seems to be more or less prevalent that under the present system of bank supervision there is considerable "confusion and conflict of authority". There is a possibility that Federal legislation may be proposed for changing our supervisory methods, and consolidating supervisory authorities.

Here is a case where the old adage concerning making haste slowly fits like a glove. For far more than the mere technical procedure of bank supervision is involved. William A. White, State Superintendent of Banks of New York, went straight to the heart of the issue when he recently said: "The argument that all supervisory power should be consolidated in the interest of efficiency, carries a subtle appeal to those who are unfamiliar with the history and functioning of our banking system. It it probably true that centralization in any branch of government makes for efficiency for some purposes. The question which the public must decide is whether efficiency gained at the cost of surrendering safeguards against absolute rule is worth the price. If today we consolidate into one agency all the powers possessed by the various bank supervisory authorities now in existence, we will have gone a long way toward creating a dictatorship over the banking and monetary system of this country. Such centralization is not only unnecessary, but highly dangerout to the contiuued existence of both our banking system and our American form of government".

There should be no hasty change in our banking methods and supervision of banks until time and exhaustive investigation has shown a real need for it—and until it is made absolutely certain that the people, who own the money in our banks, are protected against a possible "economic dictatorship". Centralization of power in the name of efficiency is one of the prime arguments of all who believe in totalitarian government. It can't be made to jibe with democracy.

WHAT MAKES CHRISTMAS?

Christmas is at hand. In the stores clerks are busy trying to give courteous attention to the crowds of customers pushing through the aisles. Fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, daughters, cousins, uncles and aunts have gone into that final eleventh hour in frantic search for the last things they must buy so that no dear one will be slighted on this one day of all the year.

For this is the one day in all the year when every person with an iota of compassion in his heart, desires to make others happy. And truly who can dispute the fact that the happiest person is the one who contributes most to the happiness of others? Where is there a normal, grown person who has not found the truth of "it is more blessed to give than to receive"?

This is almost universally true. We may fill newspapers and books with wise cracks about the "gold-digger" girls and hinting relatives who write pointed letters to Santa telling of the gorgeous gifts they want to receive. But in reality the person who spends very much time in wishful thinking about what he is going to RECEIVE for Christmas, is rare indeed. On the contrary our streets and homes and stores are filled these days, not only with the rich and poor, but the run-of-the-mill type of every day people who are hunting and planning for making or buying the best gifts they can for all those whom they love. And what does all this planning and buying bring to us? It brings us the largest measure of happiness humans can obtain—the happiness of doing for others.

Did you ever lose a dear one a little before Christmas? If the answer be "yes", then stop to think just what it meant. Did you miss the gift that dear one always had given you at Christmas, the most? Or was the sharpest pang caused by the thought you were unable to do any act of kindness for the earthly comfort of that departed soul? How you longed for a return of the days when a mere smile on your lips would have brought the light of love leaping up into someone's eyes.

I saw a little girl in a store elevator the other day—eyes alight with a flame which only youth filled with anticipation can kindle. The prattle was probably inconsequential—the thoughts were the thoughts of childhood, but in that child during these days of mysticism there was coming to life the very life and soul of Christmas. Forming in that mind were the ideas of a glorious season when everyone was happy and everyone was kind. A season to be anticipated and treasured beyond any other time of year. A season when a little child's smile could bring an answering, friendly response from grim old men and tense, forbidding women.

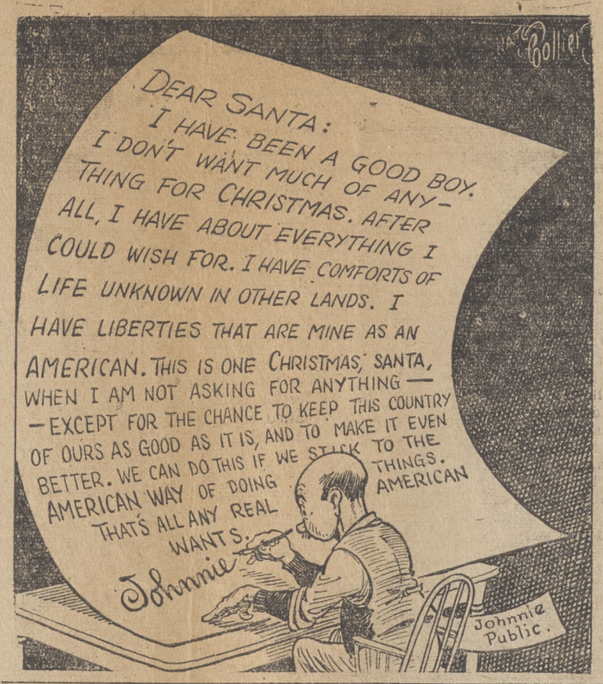
Twenty-thirty-forty years from now out of all the experiences of a crowded lifetime that child will probably be able to look back and remember many happy things indelibly impressed on her mind by the Christmas of 1939. The year will have been long forgotten, but the memories of the season will burn as freshly as a newly struck match.

Why do we continue to celebrate Christmas with all the old spirit and will of years gone by, in spite of the words of the skeptics who have croaked it was "old fashioned"? Why are we a Godless nation through eleven months of the year; rude, thoughtless, unkind to many, cruel to others? Why is it that a world which seems filled with selfish men and women during most of the time, suddenly becomes a place peopled with loving human beings doing kindly acts?

It is because we fundamentally are a Christian nation. With all our Godlessness and indifference, with all our pursuit of temporal happiness and passing riches, we still inwardly harbor kind thoughts and good deeds which come shooting forth at the Christmas season. Many keep as far away from church as they can throughout the year, yet mingle their efforts with that of others in celebrating the birth of Christ, the head of the Church. In spite of their efforts at indifference they cannot find true happiness without following the example of Jesus who spent a short, but immensely useful life upon earth.

We give small gifts to try to bring happiness to others, and make ourselves the happiest in the giving. Christ gave the greatest gift of all—and in giving His life upon the cross He kindled the spirit of Christmas which has grown and spread until it encompasses millions who all unwittingly follow His example in a small way.

THE LETTER TO SANTA



Boller
DEAR SANTA:
I HAVE BEEN A GOOD BOY. I DON'T WANT MUCH OF ANY-THING FOR CHRISTMAS. AFTER ALL, I HAVE ABOUT EVERYTHING I COULD WISH FOR. I HAVE COMFORTS OF LIFE UNKNOWN IN OTHER LANDS. I HAVE LIBERTIES THAT ARE MINE AS AN AMERICAN. THIS IS ONE CHRISTMAS, SANTA, WHEN I AM NOT ASKING FOR ANYTHING — —EXCEPT FOR THE CHANCE TO KEEP THIS COUNTRY OF OURS AS GOOD AS IT IS, AND TO MAKE IT EVEN BETTER. WE CAN DO THIS IF WE STICK TO THE AMERICAN WAY OF DOING THINGS. THAT'S ALL ANY REAL AMERICAN WANTS.
Johnnie
Johnnie Public.

U. S. Santa Will Not Visit Four European Countries

The United States Santa Claus will not be able to make his annual visit to four European Nations this Christmas because the government will not allow him out of the country.

Christmas shipments to Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Danzig have been suspended and no parcels to these countries will be accepted. The lives of the people in these four countries will be still further darkened by this sad news for there is no doubt but what they looked forward to news and packages from friends and relatives who have the good fortune to live in "the land of the free and the home of the brave".

The following is a portion of a statement contained in the latest edition of the Postal Bulletin:

"Until further instructed, post office employees will refuse to accept parcel post packages for these countries. Such parcel post packages for said countries as have been mailed or which may be mailed inadvertently hereafter will be returned to the senders and the postage prepaid on such parcels refunded to the sender, except in the case of such of the parcels as had been dispatched abroad [illegible] returned."

How, What and Why

This paper has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State College of Agriculture and Home Economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Plant Black Walnuts?

R. P. B., asks: "Do you consider the planting of black walnut trees for future investment a good venture? How about other nut trees?"

Professor L. H. MacDaniels of the pomology department replies: "If by planting for profit you mean raising an orchard of black walnut trees as you would raise an apple orchard and expect the proceeds of the orchard to pay all the costs of labor, interest on investment, and other items, it is doubtful that the growing of this nut or any other could be recommended as a profitable venture in the north.

"Planting walnut trees on suitable land, however, for timber and incidentally for nuts might often work to the advantage of the grower. These trees are not adapted to northern New York, but may do well either in western New York or the Hudson Valley.

"The planting of black walnuts of the better grafted varieties, such as the Thomas and the Stambaugh, is to be encouraged as a hobby in the farm dooryards wherever suitable locations exist. More information on nut growing in New York State is given in the revised Cornell bulletin P-673. A copy has been sent to you.

Keep It Growing?

Mrs. L. C., writes: "I recently repotted the Hydrangea that I put in the flower bed this spring. Should I keep it growing or put it in the cellar to rest during the winter?"

Kenneth Wheeler of the floriculture department answers: "Leave the plants in a cool part of the cellar until later in the winter, but give them some light. This will help to develop the flower buds for next spring. The plant may be left in the cellar until the middle of the spring.

Nelson, Pa.—Richard Partridge, 6, had a malignant growth on an eye which if allowed to continue would have resulted in his death. Parents had the difficult decision to make as to whether permit removal of the eye. They hesitated and finally consented. A similar case in Chicago last year attracted nation-wide attention. The child's parents refused permission and six months later the child died.

KNOW YOUR LAW

By Carroll E. Mealey, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q. I would like to know what constitutes reckless driving?

A. Reckless driving is driving or using a motor vehicle or motor cycle in a manner which unreasonably interferes with the free and proper use of the highway, or unreasonably endangers users of the highway. To operate a car recklessly is a misdemeanor.

Q. What is the punishment for this offense?

A. For the first offense, a fine not exceeding $100, or 30 days in jail, or both. For the second offense, within a period of 18 months, a minimum fine of $50 or maximum fine of $200, or 90 days in jail, or both. For the third offense, within a period of 18 months, a minimum fine of $100 or maximum fine of $500, or 180 days in jail, or both, and revocation of operator's license. Of course, the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles may in his discretion revoke or suspend the operator's license on the first or second offense. Revocation for the third offense, however, is mandatory.

Q. Suppose that an accident has occurred and although the officer investigating did not witness the actual driving, he believes the driver was guilty of driving while intoxicated. Can anything be done about it?

A. Yes, under the provision of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, an officer is empowered to make an arrest where an accident has occurred, though not in his presence, if he has reasonable cause to believe that the driver was intoxicated. An arrest may be also made in like manner when the officer has reason to believe that the driver left the scene of an accident.

Q. What sort of a violation is it if a person whose license or registration has been suspended or revoked continues to operate?

A. It is a misdemeanor.

Guide to Healthful Growth of Children

1. Aim to have your child show a steady increase in height and weight. Check up on this frequently.

2. Regularity of program, simplicity of menus and a happy atmosphere, together with fresh air and sunshine and plenty of sleep, are keynotes to child health.

3. The child's daily meals should include these types of foods:

a. One quart of milk daily, either as a beverage, on cereals or as an ingredient of soups, custards, etc.

b. One egg each day, either soft egg or included in custards and similar dishes.

c. Cereals at least once a day, preferably twice, usually hot and whole grain, with other hot or ready-to-serve cereals occasionally substituted for variety.

d. For tooth exercise, stale crusts, toast or hard crackers should be furnished each day for chewing.

e. A green vegetable every day with spinach, tomatoes, baked or mashed potato and cabbage often vegetables in very small amounts used as a sandwich filling may be given to children over two years old.

f. Orange or tomato juice every day and a cooked fresh fruit. Raw fruit after the fifth year.

g. No meat until the sixth year and then only in very moderate amounts. Tender chicken, lamb, lean beef, mutton or lean and easily flaked fish are best. Serve at the noon meal, never at night.

h. Encourage drinking of water.

LOOKING FORWARD

One of the most amusing incidents currently in Washington is to hear the New Dealers talking about the "Republican kindergarten". The rollicking humor of this change of face seems to escape them, for only a few months ago they referred to Republicans as "the old guard", and as the "old men of the horse and buggy age".

But now we are the "Republican kindergarten!" Such is the length to which the third termites have been driven to disparage their opposition. For some six years, to hear the New Dealers, age was a sin and youth a great crowning virtue, a foundation of wisdom.

President Roosevelt for some six years placed the emphasis on youth. So did Mrs. Roosevelt, even though she appeared attracted more to the youthful reds and pinks than to the real American boys and girls of this country. The President surrounded himself with youths—young Tommy Corcoran, young Benny Cohen, young Adolf Berle, young William O. Douglas—oh, so many other young ones that their names would fill all this space.

"New Blood" Needed

Anyone who had passed his sixtieth birthday was headed toward the ash can. The President originally pitched his Supreme Court packing plan on the thesis that when men became advanced in years they lose the powers of reason and judgment. New blood, said the President, was needed.

But no longer do we hear from the President and his New Dealers that "new blood" is needed. That has become a Republican slogan. No longer is the emphasis being placed on youth—that the Republicans are doing. Now the New Dealers solemnly say that Mr. Roosevelt should have a third term because of his matured experience and his age. Of course, on that basis, the appropriate Democratic nominee is Vice President John N. Garner, who was active in public affairs when Mr. Roosevelt was still in short pants.

The truth of the matter is that Mr. Roosevelt and the New Dealers have grown old. And they have grown tired. It is the Democratic National Committee which now is the "old guard"; for man for man, it is much older than its counterpart, the Republican National Committee.

Youth Turns to G. O. P.

American youth now finds the Republican Party has become the best vehicle in public life. Young men and women have found little opportunity within the Democratic Party to displace the oldsters, who tenaciously hold what they have. Not only do they find the door to Republican Party councils open to them but they have found and are finding opportunities to hold major public officers.

The youthful Thomas E. Dewey, who, at 37 years old, is a major contender for the Republican Presidential nomination, is the best example. But there are others. There is 32-year-old Harold E. Stassen, Governor of Minnesota, who recently demonstrated in Washington an ability to think constructively as well as to exchange humorous barbs.

There is the youthful Governor of Kansas, Payne H. Ratner, and the even more youthful Governor of Rhode Island, William H. Vanderbilt. Governor Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut is another of what the New Dealers now call the "Republican kindergarten". So are Connecticut's young Republican Senator, John A. Danaher, and Massachusetts' Henry Cabot Lodge.

The election of these young men to high public office is disconcerting to the New Dealers not only because they are Republicans but because they represent a complete refutation of the Rooseveltian thesis that the doors of opportunity have been closed in this country and that henceforth youth can make its way only with the assistance of Government subsidies and handouts.

Little Hope in New Deal

American youth at last has awakened to the fact that the New Deal holds little hope for its future. It has realized that while the New Deal youths have set about crying in their beer over their plight, other youth has been out getting ahead by determined conscientious individual initiative and effort.

The truth gradually is becoming clear that the so-called "youth problem", about which the New Dealers chatter so much, is no different from the problem confronting the entire nation—namely, restoration of a sound economic recovery so that all who wish to work in private industry may get it at decent wages. Youth's big problem is to get started on a career, which means getting a job.

For youth the current depression has been a greater obstacle than it has been for an older generation, first, because the older generation holds what jobs there are, and, secondly, because the New Deal's policies of restriction and its economy of scarcity have prevented the creation of new jobs. And youth likewise is coming to a realization that by constantly generating uncertainty, the New Deal is depriving it of a chance of getting started and going. Perhaps the answer does lie with the "Republican kindergarten".

Dr. F. Crawford Censures High Gas Taxes

Dr. Finla G. Crawford, dean of the college of liberal arts of Syracuse university and one of the most widely known economists of the country, denounces the exorbitant taxes on gasoline which the Lehman administration gouges the public with in this state. Even worse conditions prevail in some other states.

This opinion was expressed in a thesis just completed by Dr. Crawford.

Dr. Crawford is the son of the late Eugene Crawford of Cameron Mills who spent his life in Steuben County as one of its most useful and outstanding citizens.

Dr. Crawford warns the state governments that they are killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. In the 21 years since gasoline taxes were first levied in Oregon, states have found more than 7 billion dollars in revenue in this levy. New York state led the field in collections last year with over 66 million dollars out of more than 766 millions collected in the states in addition to the federal tax. New York's tax is 4 cents a gallon. There are a few states levying 3 cents on a gallon and others as high as 7 cents.

Dr. Crawford says that there is a point at which gasoline taxation will cease to produce more revenue. People will simply have to stop buying gasoline because of the price created by taxation.

It should also be considered that in this new revenue there might be some means of cutting down on other forms of taxation rather than always the invention of new spending outlets to demand more taxation.

PNEUMONIA (Chap. 2)

This form has been followed more or less for many years: When the balance is lost, or seriously interfered with, between food taken, exercise and elimination of waste products, something gradually goes wrong with the health of the individual.—So you had better balance the budget (excuse me) or something serious may happen.

One may develop a more or less chronic condition which presents no prominent symptoms. One of these is the impairment of the normal alkalinity of the blood.

This may result from too much food or the wrong kind of food, and produce a fundamental physiologic insufficiency, This background may furnish the soil for some acute infection such as pneumonia or so-called common cold, or a catarrhal condition of the upper air passages, and many other troubles such as hives and other skin diseases. In other words, an acute disorder or disease on a chronic background. But we are discussing pneumonia now. Listen to this? taken from a leaflet sent out by the N. Y. State Department of Health for the prevention and treatment of whooping cough: — "Well persons may carry the germs of pneumonia in their throats and, if they are allowed to come in contact with a child who has whooping cough. may infect the patient with pneumonia!" All right, this may be so, but why are well persons carrying pneumonia germs in their throat? Is it not because their blood is normally alkaline and these germs do not find the soil right for further invasion?

It was stated that the loss of blood alkalinity gave no diagnostic symptoms. How about hearing a person across the street coughing? You don't need a telescope or a microscope or a test tube to make the diagnosis!

The treatment then is simple. Give soda (Sodium Bicarbonate). For an adult give it at the first sneeze or continued cough or cold—a teaspoonful 2 or 3 times a day for two or three days, and do not use too much fuel in the form of food.

So keep the blood stream alkaline
And let Penumonia pass by,
Then you may sing Sweet Ad-O-line
Or watch the stars shine in the sky!

AHS Aggies Trim Northside

The Addison Aggies downed a determined squad of Northside Aggies by the score of 24 to 15 in an Agriculture League game on the old gym floor Friday night.

The invaders led by the shifty Kuhl, started the scoring and led throughout the first quarter, the quarter ending in favor of the Corning farmers by a 6-5 margin.

In the second quarter the pass work of the Aggies improved and they began hitting the mesh frequently with Matthews and Hall carrying the brunt of the offense. The Aggies went out in front in this quarter by scoring eight points to two for Northside and the half ended with the locals leading 14-8.

At the start of the second half Mark Dickerson went in for two cripples in a row to give the locals a commanding lead. However, the Corning boys reorganized their team after calling time out and sparked by Bzybon got back into the ball game.

The many substitutions made by both teams during the last quarter cut down on the scoring.

This will be the last game for the locals until after Christmas vacation when they will meet the Woodhull High School varsity.

Christmas Carols Have Background

All during the Christmas season, beautiful carols are sung, and many of these carols have interesting stories behind them.

Probably no carol is so universally known and loved as the simple German song, "Silent Night". For years its origin was unknown, but it was thought to date back centuries. A few years ago, it was found that this carol was produced in 1818.

The poem was written by Joseph Mohr, an assistant priest in Oberndorf, in South Germany, and the melody composed by Franz Gruber, a schoolmaster. On Christmas Eve of that year, it was sung in the church at Oberndorf. A guitar furnished the accompaniment because the organ was out of order. Twenty years or so later, a family of strolling singers from the Tyrol added it to their repertoire, and in 1840 it was printed in Leipzig.

Another Christmas carol with a story is "Good King Wenceslas", who was a real personage, the King of Bohemia from 928 to 935. The story of the song, as written, related a kind deed that the king performed for a poor peasant, and the miracle that followed. It took place on December 26, the feast day of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr.

The song ends with a drawing of a moral, "Ye who now will bless the poor, shall yourselves find blessing."

When these Christmas carols are sung, they keep alive the spirit and expression that stirred many folks that have gone before, and the countless numbers that will follow.

FUNERAL SERVNCES HELD ....

Funeral services for John Lyon, aged 70, were held Monday from his late home near Naples and burial was made in Clearview Cemetery North Conocton.

The death of Mr. Lyons occurred about 11:30 Friday night, December 15, at the home of his daughter Mrs. William Levi where he was visiting. He was stricken ill December 10.

Born in Palmyra, Mr Lyon was the son of Silas and Mary Havens Lyon. He married Mary Chittley of Moulton, Can., about 46 years ago and they continued to reside in Palmyra for several years, later moving to Buffalo, where Mr. Lyon was a railroad employe. Following his retirement they moved to Naples.

The death of his wife occurring two years ago, he is survived by the daughter, Mrs. Levi, above mentioned and six sons, Fred, Wilford, Augustus, Ralph and Osborn of Naples and John of Buffalo and two grandchildren, Betty Jean and Jackie Lyon of Naples.

Owego—A young woman was arrested here recently for suspicious actions, purloining property not her own and being a nuisance. Police contacts with her parents in Buffalo reveal the fact the parents are not interested in her or what becomes of her.

Wellsville — This community in keeping with many others throughout America is proclaiming "Finland Day" for one day to raise funds to be sent to that beleaguered country. Former President Herbert Hoover is in charge of the fund in the United States.

An incentive for home Christmas decoration is being provided by the Ad Club this year, and it is hoped every home will have such pretty decorations that the judges will have a hard time.

—o—

Some time ago a woman wrote a book on "Live alone and like it." Then after making a success from her book, she proved she was wrong by getting married. Now, I can appreciate the fact that living alone is not liking it, for I have been doing it for a week and cannot say I like it. The family went away last week and bachelor's hall is not what it used to be.

—o—

Remember the Christmas carol service Saturday night at 8:15. Come around and shout out the good old hymns that we sang lustily as kids. They are still as good today as then.

—o—

I'm glad to see so many toys being sold in the stores and fewer adult things. And I don't mean this to knock any merchant. But it is time that Christmas was returned to the children.

—o—

The biggest Christmas present I want is to keep things I've got. Folks, home, a wife and son, friends, health and life.

—o—

Did you ever stop to think of the number of changes there have been in the personnel of those to whom you are sending Christmas and New Year's cards? There have been deaths, marriages, births and address changes throughout the year, and as you sit and address the cards a flood of memories comes over you as you think of the people and places. I know it took me much longer to address my list on this account. How about you?

—o—

There seems to be considerable agitation against the removal of the dam on the Canisteo River. However, I'm of the personal opinion that when Uncle Sam steps in, he gets what he wants, regardless of you and I. He is looking at this thing from a birdseye view of the whole Susquehanna water shed, while we only see our local problems.

—o—

Incidentally some of the problems to be created here as I have heard during the past week concern beauty of the district which will become a mudhole in spots with only a creek through the village, those depending upon the river for ice will have to go elsewhere, sewage being dumped into the river will have to be put in cesspools, companies depending upon the river for water will find wells going dry, skating will be curtailed and other kindred things.

—o—

There has been some criticism of the purchase of the street lights for Christmas decorations. Be it known that not one cent of profit went to any local person on the purchase of these lights as the committee was given them at cost.

—o—

And as a member of the committee, I was quite proud of my Boss when he suggested that the Ad Club give a dinner to the men who donated their time in putting the lights up and these men will be asked to come to the next Ladies' Night program and bring their wives as guests of the Ad Club.

—o—

To the young lady who expected something else:

Listen, girlie—
Times are hard,
Take this little
Christmas card;
It will do
To mark a book
Or decorate
The breakfast nook,
Or patch a broken
Window pane—
And when your frail
Affections wane,
Prop it up
Beside the phone
And jot down numbers
Not my own . . . .

—o—

In addition to being a good railroad man, Albert Root, Farnham street, is a good grafter. I knew you would get that wrong. He grafts trees. He took this up as a hobby quite some time ago and has met with success in crossing various fruits and making one tree bear six or more varieties of one fruit.

—o—

This is December 20 and right now Addison and vicinity is being drenched with a rainstorm which has been in operation for several hours. Imagine? And Christmas only four days away.

—o—

The members of the staff of the Addison Advertiser - Woodhull Sentinel wish to extend to you all their sincerest good wishes for a cheerful Christmas, for good health and happiness.

GREENWOOD

Service Club Formed

The Greenwood Masonic Lodge through the formation of a service club known as the "Booster Club" is launching out into projects which will be of distinct benefit to the community. At a recent meeting, it was decided to promote a roast pork dinner in the near future, the proceeds of which will be used as a fund to finance snow removal from the sidewalks of the village. With practically all food donated, the club expects the support of all, and hopes to raise a goodly sum for this project. Announcement of the dinner date will be made soon.

This club is also making an attempt to have a blinker light placed at the intersection of routes 17 and 17G in the village of Greenwood. It is believed this will materially reduce accidents.

Methodist Brotherhood Activities

Activity is noticed in the ranks of the Methodist Men's Brotherhood of thois village. This group of men has decided to promote the painting and redecorating of the interior of the church. A committee has already been appointed to work out the details. At some later date it is expected the men will gather and form an old-fashioned "bee" to do the actual work.

Hearing Tests

Audiometer tests for hearing defects were recently made in Supervisory District No. 4 by Mrs. Mary White of Rochester assisted by Supt. Virgil Hussey. The results of these examinations show that 36 pupils within the district have defective hearing. Reports will be sent to the parents.

High Attendance Averages

The attendance summary for the month of October shows that a very high average is being maintained. The average for the Supervisory District is 96%. During October four rural schools gained an average of 100%; Jasper No. 14, West Union No. 1, West Union No. 2 and West Union No. 6.

Recent Visitors

State Supervisors C. D. Schwartz and Harrison Van Cott from the Education Department at Albany, were recent visitors to schools in this area. They seemed pleased at the progress bing made and the manner in which the schools are being administered.

Send Out Material

Material recently sent or scheduled to be sent out to the schools from the office of the Superintendent of Schools includes: "The Public School Directory of District No. 4"; "Teachers' Emergency Guide for Pupil Sickness and Accidents"; "An Extra-Curricular Program for High Schools", and "How to Save Money in Central Schools."

Northside Noses Out Addison Knights By One Point

Game played on Addison court Friday night replete with thrills—Both teams miss scoring opportunities—Root is high scorer with 12 points.

Basketball fans were thrilled and yelling reached a high pitch here Friday night when the Addison Knights held a supposedly much superior Corning Northside team to a 20 to 19 score.

Addison lost to Corning Northside by the narrow margin of one point on the Addison court in a game that was replete with thrills from the opening whistle until the final moment of the game. The teams were tied at times during the contest and both teams led at various times.

In the preliminary game the Addison Midgets, the second team, lost to a much larger Corning squad 22 to 16.

The big game opened with Hargrave dropping a double decker under the basket for Addison and Root followed with a long center court set shot giving Addison the lead which was maintained throughout the entire eight minutes of the opening period.

Corning basketeers failed to find the basket in 20 tries from under the basket and both teams were miserable on foul shooting, seeming to hit all around the basket.

Rice and Smith for Corning went into action in the second period and ran the score up to nine points while holding Addison to a lone field goal by Root and the half ended with the Northsiders on the long end of 9 to 6 score.

Root opened the third period for Addison with another center court set shot and Northside retaliated by scoring a field goal by Rice and a foul point by Rice who was fouled on the two-point play. Root came right back to drop another field goal in and bring the score to 12 to 10 for the visitors. Thomson, center for Addison, went into the air on a trick play and scored a field goal and Smith for Northside popped one in from under the basket to end the third quarter 14 to 12.

Louie Dommick dribbled down court at a speed to baffle the Corningites and dropped a field goal to tie the score at 14 all. Cawley put the Northsiders ahead with a field goal and Whitten duplicated the feat as did Hawley and Corning was out in front 20 to 14. Root stood in mid court again and fired a long shot to bring Addison to 16. Thomson gathered in a foul point to put the score at 17, Root took another time shot and Addison was one point behind with less than a minute to play. Addison blew two shots under the basket and a foul and lost the game. Root was high scorer of the game, with 12 points. Every man on the Corning team scored a field goal.

Referee Grange was hard put to watch all the actions in this contest. Addisonites did not follow through on shots enough and tried too many one-armed shots to make good. Both teams lost points on missing fouls for Corning scored two of seven fouls and Addison only one of nine. Corning walked the ball under the basket several times only to lose it to Addison's speedy guards. And Corning tried for the basket 37 times in the first half to make four field goals.

The box score:

This Week In Sports

Addison High won a moral victory and if foul shooting had been better they could actually have won from Northside instead of losing 20 to 19. The Addisonites scored one foul point in nine tries. Anyway the boys feel pretty good about going out of their class and holding the Big Town boys down.

Townsend Club Watch - Party

Hush, now, this is a secret! We're going to have a little "party" in Grange Hall, Addison, afternoon of December 31, to put the old year over the fence! And it will take a lot of help to do it! So we invite old fellows of 16 or 17 years of age and their best girls, and young kids of 60 or 70 years with their sweethearts, and all others between.

The "agony" will begin at 2 P. M. and continue till just past 12 P. M. at which time we will bump the old year off. This is under the auspices of the Addison Townsend Club. There will be good speakers and imitation ones. Lots of music and imitation music. And a grand good time. And along at about 5 P. M. the misery will stop while we have coffee and "with it".

The Presho Club is invited en-masse; as are the people of nearby places. But don't tell anybody, it's a select party.

But for heaven's sake bring some eats, knife, fork, cup, etc.

Gen. Chairman, Addison

Food Leaders Meet With Home Specialist

Home Bureau unit leaders in the Foods and Nutrition project met recently with the college specialist, Miss Lillian Shaben, for their first lesson in the project Foods for Health and Good Looks. This first lesson included a demonstration of the use of milk in making desserts and a discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of using milk and meal planning for a family.

Miss Shaben stressed milk as a high calcium (lime) food particularly for growing children but also important for adults. She said many persons realize that children should have their quart of milk a day but fail to accept the fact that adults need it also. Milk, too, is a good source of vitamins A and D and although children need D more than adults, the other side of the picture is that adults need A more than D.

Considering milk only from the standpoint of its furnishing an excellent supply of milk for the system is was suggested that leaders compare the prices of some of the calcium equivalents to a quart of milk. These include 128 slices of white bread or 32 eggs or 10 pounds of salmon or 24 medium sized oranges. This comparison, of course, is made only on the basis of calcium, not on other valuable food constituents for which milk and many other foods are needed in the diet.

Leaders who attended this training meeting were: Freeman unit, Mrs. Glenn Hackett and Mrs. Michael Brennan; Woodhull, Mrs. Leslie Hodge and Mrs. E. J. Peters; Addison, Mrs. Wilfred Miller; Borden, Mrs. John Baker, Mrs. Raymond Newland; Painted Post, Mrs. Lee Merrick, Mrs. A. J. Adler; Savona, Mrs. David Scudder, Mrs. Clarence Barkley; Hammondsport, Mrs. Leo Leiderbach, Mrs. George Quinn; Campbell, Mrs. Leland Jack; Troupsburg, Mrs. Ray Sanford; Hornell Armory, Mrs. J. P. Butler; Greenwood, Mrs. Arling Cobb, Mrs. Belle Updyke; Canisteo, Mrs. Clarence Travis; Hornell, Mrs. Hope Smith, Mrs. D. A. Burdett; South Hornell, Mrs. J. Roy Clarke; Howard, Mrs. Clarence Burdin, Mrs. Earl House.

This project will be concluded with two more lessons given late in the spring, one on the use and cooking of vegetables, the other on the use of raw fruits and vegetables. Leaders will repeat the demonstrations and discussions in their local units.

Library Books Interpret Europe; Others of Interest

Addison Public Library has acquired several new books of unusual interest. Chief among these is "Inside Europe", by John Gunther. The New York Herald-Tribune says of it, "The most competent one-man reportorial job ever undertaken.

"From Nazi Sources",", by Dr. Fritz Sternberg, is actually from authentic Nazi sources, which Nazi centers never dreamed was getting out.

"The Revolution of Nihilism", by Hermann Rauschning, is called "essential reading" by Dorothy Thompson.

"To the Lost World", by Paul Zahl is the report of a scientist in the gorge-cut jungles and mountains of British Guiana and reads like a first-rate adventure story.

"Land Below the Wind", by Agnes Keith, the $5,000 Atlantic prize non-fiction book, tells of her life as the American wife of an English official in one of the furthermost outposts of the British Empire, North Borneo.

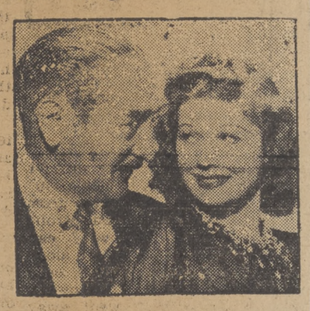
"We, the parents", Sidonie Gruenberg, head of the Child Study Association, arms parents of today with answers to their most perplexing problems.

"Delectable Dinners", by Peterson and Badenoch is an essentially new kind of cookbook in that the arrangement is by complete menus of well balanced meals.

Other new books are: "Life and You, Preston Bradley; "Windows of Henry Street", Lillian Wald; "Mr. Garner of Texas", Marquis James; "Individual Differences", Frank Freeman; "Oh, Doctor! My Feet!" Dudley Morton, M. D.; Dr. Hudson's Secret Journal", Lloyd C. Douglass and "Miss Susie Slagle's", Agusta Tucker.

Kay Kyser and His Band in "That's Right, You're Wrong" at Fox Theatre

The troubles which beset a motion picture producer trying to obtain a story to introduce a famous dance bandsman on the screen, form the hilarious basis of Kay Kyser's debut film, "That's Right—You're Wrong".



Adolphe Menjou is co-starred with the noted orchestra leader, while May Robinson, Lucille Ball, Dennis O'Keefe, Edward Everett Horton, Roscoe Karns and Moroni Olsen—and Kyser's own band soloists, Ginny Simms, Harry Babbitt, Sully Mason and Ish Kabibble—have important supporting roles.

The sparkling story of "That's Right—You're Wrong" presents Kay Kyser as himself. When the movie producer learns of the amazing popularity of Kyser's unique radio program, "The College of Musical Knowledge", he induces him and his band to star in a picture. However, Kyser's down-to-earth personality does not fit the torrid Latin lover character created by the scenario writers.

Laughs pile up furiously when the scenarists fail to evolve a suitable story, the producer frantically tries to break Kyser's contract, Kyser's screen test as a Casanova turns out to be a burlesque, and the boys in the band, believing their boss has "gone Hollywood", whisk him away and put him back on the air again—where Kyser wanted to be right along.

The Right Place For Economy

It is our belief that the rank and file place too much stress upon Washington as the place where economies should begin. It is also our belief that any movement to reduce administration and government expense and spending should begin right here at home—in Corning, in Painted Post, and all other cities, towns and villages of New York State and every state.

The orgy of spending is an obsession among the "smaller fry" as well as a political inheritance among the "bigger fellows". There seems to be more concern as to how additional monies can be raised—for further spending—than how to reduce taxes and at the same time balance our budget. Spending large amounts of money in the guise of relief is the cheapest means of acquiring majorities in November elections.

For want of a better instrument we endorse local taxpayers leagues. This is not the true solution to a menacing problem, but it is likely to be the thrust that will avail of immediate action. Our opinion of taxpayers leagues is that they create a whale of a lot of confusion, among members, and the total of their efforts amounts to no more than pure criticism. A small group, who will study the means and causes and then prepare a plan of constructive thinking, can do much more than any large group. But such a group must be firm in their opinions and purposes.

Any movement, that will be constructive, toward lowering taxes and curbing huge expenditures, must be started right here at home. Every municipal officer; every town and county official; Senators, Assemblymen, and school officials should be told plainly and positively that increases are out of date and that decreases are to be expected from now on. They must not only be told—they must be shown how, where and when such constructive steps can be taken.

American Boy Magazine Companion to Thousands

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine.

"It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum", writes one high school senior. "THE AMERICAN BOY seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our school baseball team because of playing tips I read in THE AMERICAN BOY".

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend THE AMERICAN BOY enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of THE AMERICAN BOY advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in THE AMERICAN BOY, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

THE AMERICAN BOY sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance direct to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michican

Home Decoration Ideas Offered For Christmas

Outdoor decorating during the coming holiday is fast becoming an universal art. And well it should—for aren't we practicing the Christmas spirit by placing our decorations where everyone can enjoy them? This year is the year for each of us to plan some kind of outdoor decoration no matter how simple or elaborate.

Evergreen trees or shrubs in your front yard serve as excellent places for strings of electric lights. They will present a very simple but truly impressive effect.

If you have a mania for using lights in your decorating schemes, many will comment on the home that is outlined with an assortment of colored bulbs.

A display that is sheltered from the weather can be worked out with cardboard, such as letters to form some sort of greeting, or figures to form groups. Some clever designs can be made if you have the ingenuity.

Shellac or paint will give added effect during the daytime, and a bit of protection. While still wet, artificial snow can be sprinkled on the designs adding further to their attractiveness. A spotlight could be used to advantage.

Why not draw attention to the roof of your house by a Santa Claus just ready to descend the chimney? Or possibly Santa and his reindeers and sleigh will appeal to your fancy. To endure the weather, it may be necessary to make these figures out of plywood. Certainly for the best results a spotlight must be used.

If the roof is out of the question, confine your display to the ground. How about the familiar group of Wise Men? These figures should be made of plywood or other light weight material that will stand the storms. Don't forget the spotlight.

A rather simple, yet effective window display, could be worked out easily. Choose a prominent window and outline it with evergreen branches, or form an arch. Use a string of bulbs to complete the display.

Another attractive decoration, but one that must be watched, is to place a lighted candle in each window of the house on Christmas Eve. This may also be used on New Year's Eve. The new electric candles are much safer and give the same effect except for the flicker of candle light.

The above suggestions are not new. They have been worked out in various places for some years. However, by using your own imagination you can work out something novel by using one of these ideas as a base.

The location of the home on the street, the height of your porch roof, the entrance to your home, or anything the least bit out of the ordinary lends itself to some new mething of decorating. Try out your ideas, no matter how peculiar they may seem. You can't tell without trying it!

Around Our House

Homemade candied grapefruit, orange and lemon peel is a popular sweet anytime, but is particularly welcome during the holiday season both for the family and for gifts. Two ways to make grapefruit peel are suggested by the New York State College of Home Economics.

Method 1: Cut oranges, lemons, and grapefruit in half, and scoop out the pulp; retain the peels only for candying, but leave them in halves or cut them in strips. Cover the peels with cold water, bring them to a boil, and drain. Repeat this process six or seven times to remove the bitterness and to enable the fruit to absorb the sirup without shriveling.

For each pound of peel, make a sirup of 2 cups of sugar, 2 tablespoons of corn sirup, and 2 cups of water. The sirup should cover the peels without crowding them in the kettle. Boil the peels in the sirup until white spots form and the peels are clear, then let them stand in the sirup overnight or for several hours.

Reheat the mixture, remove the peels, drain them, roll them while warm in granulated sugar, and place them, skin side down, on a plate or a cake rack to dry. Keep the peels between layers of waxed paper in a tightly covered tin box.

Method 2: Prepare and boil the grapefruit peels in water as directed in the first method. For each pound of peel, make a sirup of 2 cups of sugar, 1-3 cup of white corn sirup, and 1 cup of water. Boil the peels in the sirup until white spots form and the peels are clear, and then proceed as before.

When the fruit is removed from the sirup, dip it for an instant into hot water, drain it to remove excess syrup and dip it in pectin solution (made by mixing any good household pectin with twice as much water) which should be at room temperature. Drain it and dry it as directed in method 1.

College Grads See More Jobs

Ithaca, Dec. 11—Anticipating the economic upturn which is already being felt at Cornell University thru the inquiries of prospective employers, the University is strengthening placement resources in all departments in preparation for what is expected by representatives of several of the larger industries to be the most promising year since 1937 for the employment of college graduates.

"The prospects for the 1940 graduate are indeed bright", says Herbert H. Williams, director of the University Placement Bureau. Right now, though the first term is only ten weeks old, we are receiving inquiries from companies which anticipate hiring college men in February or next June. A few interviewers have already visited the campus. Most Engineers graduating in February have received offers of employment. Calls reaching the University Placement Bureau for alumni have been increasing, suggesting the quickened pace of industry. Each recruiter with whom I have talked is optimistic about employment possibilities in 1940".

Personnel officers in all departments of the University are now busy assembling undergraduate records of all seniors. These records, available to any interested employer, include the scholastic rank in class, the record of summer and part-time working experience, and the record of extra-curricular activities. Records of all engineering students, covering the above information have already been assembled in booklet form, together with pictures. Most other records will be ready by Christmas, and all will be available through the University Placement Bureau or through the several department offices.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good heath is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

December Means Christmas, And Busy Farm Month, Too

How many Christmas celebrations will your community have this year? The most effective and best programs are those in which all groups pool their energies and talents for one big appropriate occasion.

Organizations and groups in rural communities that have trouble in finding adequate meeting places should get together. Now is the time to sponsor joint money-making activities to maintain a community hall or other meeting place used by all groups.

Homemakers will plan Christmas dinner menus keyed to price, local market conditions, and the size of family. Kitchen products may make worthy gifts, such as marmalades, jam, cakes, nut bread, and home-canned products.

December is the telltale month for the vegetable home storage room. If the carrots and other root crops have kept well and are firm, they may be expected to be usable all winter. If they have begun to shrivel, it indicates that the storage is too dry. Decay generally indicates too high a temperature.

Egg prices began to slide toward the middle of this month, and with relatively low prices to start with, the marginal point will be reached soon. This, combined with higher feed costs, will cause poultrymen to cull heavily, but they should not overdo it. Poultrymen will also watch the feeding on cold days and provide some method to keep the drinking water from freezing.

With the change from pasture to barn feeding, dairymen are faced with new problems of feeding and management. Helpful suggestions are given in Cornell bulletin E-363 entitled "Feeding the Dairy Cow Efficiently". A penny postcard to the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y. brings a free copy.

Dairymen will also use superphosphate in the barn to reduce odors, to improve sanitation, to conserve nitrogen, and to nearly double the fertilizing value of the manure.

With farm duties less exacting, many farmers and farm boys will trap fur-bearing animals to add to income. Muskrats are most abundant in New York state, and the fur of these animals becomes prime in late December and early January.

During snow storms, when you need an excuse to sit by the fire, make a map of the farm and plan a sequence of crops so that no vegetable is planted in the same field more than once in three or four years. Rotation is the cheapest kind of disease control.

A separate allotment under the Agricultural Conservation Program will be available for planting trees in 1940. It can be earned only thru reforestation. Trees should be ordered early from the New York state Conservation Department.

For a Christmas tree, consider the fir, spruce or pine. Hemlocks lose their needles too easily. Good gifts for the gardener include new gadgets, books, magazines, bulbs, seeds, plants, tools, a camera, or garden notebook.

New Soil Service Offered Steuben Farmers

Limestone to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars is purchased annually by Steuben county farmers in order to grow clover and alfalfa, and to create a condition of maximum response to fertilizer.

For many years the soil testing service has been a popular item of the farm bureau program. In the current season tests have been made on 526 farms involving some 7,900 acres.

As a means of increasing the number of farmers to receive the service, a series of clinics were held in mid December to test soils for lime requirement. Not only were more farmers served than is possible in farm visits, but the laboratory test is more accurate than the short test used in the field.

Steuben Farmers Buy 10,000 Tons of Limestone

Within the past week Steuben County farmers have ordered more than ten thousand tons of limestone under the Agricultural Conservation Program, according to figures released by county committee chairman Leon Dennis of Canisteo.

The orders that have been taken are for delivery before December 31, and will be paid for by the 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program.

Most of the lime will be applied this winter, which practice soil experts claim to be an advantage.

AN AMERICAN CHRISTMAS GREETING to all our customers

We Americans have made our own Christmas. Santa Claus and other customs trace back but faintly to old shores. Our celebrations express a charity and good fellowship, live and let live, which are peculiarly American. Our standards of Christmas giving and well-being belong only to us.

And we have made our own Peace with the world so that we can enjoy such a Christmas without hindrance. This year let us cherish it especially. Let us pity all unlucky peoples who cannot be Americans.
